ARMED MOBS BREAK INTO FOOD STORES IN ESSEN

Several Hundred Patrons of One of City's Largest Cabarets Held Up—Germans Hold Ruhr Allies Responsible Because of Expulsion of Police.

GERMAN WORKER KILLED BY SENTRY

Vacations With Full Pay, Allowed Mine Workers, Expected to Reduce Coal Output to 15 or 20 Per Cent of Normal.

By the Associated Press.
ESSEN, March 5.—The Germans hold the Ruhr allies indirectly responsible for the disorders in Essen early yesterday.

Essen experienced the wildest night since the beginning of the occupation and in the early morning hours food stores were looted; dozens broken by armed mobs said to be composed of the unemployed.

One of the largest cabarets, the Trocadero, was held up Saturday night and several hundred patrols were robbed of all their cash. This robbery was carried out by 15 or 20 men, whom the Germans declare were communists who had taken advantage of the expulsion of the security police, which force has not yet been adequately replaced by municipal police.

The city is virtually without police protection at present and any of the citizens, in fear of further robberies or violence by bands in the streets, are arming themselves as best they can for their own protection.

German Worker Killed by Sentry

Early yesterday morning a German workman was shot and killed by a French sentry, and another German was wounded when in the railroad yards near the main passenger station in the center of the city. The French assert that the sentry ordered the Germans to halt and when they did not do so, he fired to kill, in compliance with his orders. They charge the Germans with attempting sabotage, but the German authorities maintain that the men did not realize they were encroaching on ground under military control. This station was occupied by the French yesterday, and all the rolling stock in the Essen yards was confiscated. About 1,000,000 Marks (About $500,000).

Marks to the amount of 1,000,000, from the Berlin Reichsbank which were being transported to banks in Duesseldorf, were seized yesterday by the Belgians. This money will be applied to payment of the cost of the Rhineland army of occupation, on which account Germany is in arrears.

The number of nonworkers has been increased by the vacations with full pay given them by the mine owners for March and April. The French say they have information that the vacations have been given the men in order to reduce the coal production to that required by the Ruhr industries and local districts purposes alone. These vacations with full pay will bring coal production down to 15 or 20 per cent of normal. Exact figures as to how many of the 500,000 miners are now out are not available.

Other Workers Idle.

In addition to the miners on vacation, from 20,000 to 50,000 railway men and many thousands of workers in factory districts where works are closed owing to lack of raw material or other causes are idle.

The occupational authorities charge that acts of violence against the railways and waterways are part of the German plans to hinder the French and Belgians in their transportation program. One of the agents of the Rhine-Hole Canal was torn out Saturday, not far from the place where a number of barges were sunk a fortnight ago.

CHURCH MEMBERS HELD AFTER ROW WITH MINISTER

Two Deacons and Sunday School Superintendent Accused of Disturbing Peace of the Rev. G. C. Cross.

SCUFFLE IN CHURCH STUDY IN E. ST. LOUIS

Trouble Over Division of Sunday School Class and Naming of New Teachers by the Pastor.

While the congregation of the Franklin Park Baptist Church, South street and Bond avenue, East St. Louis, waited for the morning services yesterday to begin, their pastor, two deacons and the Sunday-school superintendent were engaged in a scuffle in an anteroom which resulted in the arrest of all combatants save the pastor.

Today the Rev. Grover C. Cross, 38 years old, pastor of the church; Luther Shelby, 1013 Piggott avenue, teacher in the Sunday school and deacon; Ira Perry, 705 Converse avenue, Sunday school superintendent, and Henry Ballard, 506 Market avenue deacon, all of East St. Louis, gave their versions of the dispute. The last named three are held on bond charged with disturbing the peace.

Minister's Version of Affairs.

They entered his study while he was composing his thoughts for the morning service, the minister said, and questioned the maneuver by which Shelby recently was removed as teacher of a Sunday school class. He wanted them to leave the door open, he said, but Ballard shut it and braced himself to keep exit from the room. Then they pulled him into a pile of chairs and hit him several times, he told the police. The three accused church members today denied any act of violence against their pastor.

"We wanted to ask him to pray with us over recent dissension in the church but he misjudged our motives," Shelby said. "In his haste to get out of the room he fell over the chairs we didn't push him."

Walking Partner's Testimony.

The State relied largely on the testimony of Patrolman Michael J. Leary, who had accompanied Stapleton, and who said they went through the house to the back to investigate the woman's complaint. Flashing their lights in the rear yard, he said, they saw Kyle and Stapleton fire a shot. The negro, Leary said, ran back to a brick wall at the rear, and, being unable to go farther, stopped, as Stapleton fired a second shot. Then Kyle fired a shot, which killed Stapleton, Leary said.

Detective-Sergeant Ira L. Cooper, a negro, testified that when he arrested Kyle, the deacon, said he had gone to the house to see if another negro was there, and did not know it was a policeman who came to the yard and shot at him.

After a conference with counsel in chambers, Judge Falkenhainer sustained a demurrer to the defense to the State's case. Directing the jury to return the verdict of acquittal, he said: "This is one of those unfortunate cases, a case of the old common law. When the defendant couldn't recede any farther, and it was a clear case of self-defense in his part." Kyle had been at liberty under bond.

30 - CENT EGGS BIG NEED!

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Free speech and a living for millions "so they won't have to accept tips from wealthy puritans," eggs 30 cents a dozen and preaching of the simple gospel in churches are the greatest needs of America today, the Rev. Ernest Freeman Tittle said at the Sunday Evening Club last night.

Floyd Smith of Bradford County was electrocuted today for the slaying of his infant child in South Waverly, Pa., in April 1920.

HARDING PRAISES WORLD COURT AS 'A GREAT ADVANCE'

American Participation Would Be a Long and Important Step, Declares the President, in Letter.

REPLIES TO MESSAGE OF OHIO LEGISLATURE

Executive Reiterates Statement That No Yielding of United States' Rights Is Contemplated.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, March 5.—Declaring that American participation in the Court of International Justice would constitute "one of the greatest advances which world society has made toward conditions in which at last the rule of law may be substituted for the rule of force," President Harding today made acknowledgment of the same position by the Ohio Legislature, extending the commendation of that State for the President's stand in favor of the court.

The President, in a letter to Lieutenant-Governor Bloom, declared that adhesion of the United States to the program and purposes of the Court of International Justice "would represent a long and important step toward the assumption of those proper and entirely safe relationships to international affairs which should be borne by such a country as our own."

From the President's Letter.

"I wish to tell you, and through your official capacity, to inform the members of the Ohio Senate of the especial satisfaction it has given me to receive this testimony of approval and of valued support from a body of which I was for a long time a member. I feel that the adhesion of our country to the program and purposes of the Court of International Justice would represent a long and important step toward the assumption of those proper and entirely safe relationships to international affairs which should be borne by such a country as our own."

"The recommendation that the United States adhere to the protocol under which this court has been created is not proposed without the most thorough and careful deliberation. Those who at this time are entrusted with the direction of the international relations of our country are firmly convinced that this move not only would represent the wise policy for our own people, but would be an emphatic testimony of our purpose to encourage every feasible project for establishing the rule of law, as opposed to the rule of power in this world."

Justice Instead of Might. "The whole story of civilization has been the story of the efforts of our substitute the domination of justice under law for armed might. I may say frankly that it is inconceivable to me that the American people, who have so long been devoted to this ideal, should refuse their adherence to such a program as is represented by this tribunal."

"Nothing could be farther from the purpose of the administration than to suggest that our country surrender any of its control over its own fundamental right and destiny. But we may be sure that differences will always rise among the states and the people, precisely as there have been between individuals; and just as courts of justice in equity have been set up to determine issues as between individuals, so it is proper and logical that provision should be made for a like adjudication of those differences between nations and peoples which may properly be committed to such determination."

One of Greatest Advances. "I look upon the establishment of the Court of International Justice, with the admiration that has been given to it as one of the greatest advances which world society has made toward conditions in which at last the rule of law may be substituted for the rule of force. It looks to the settlement of issues before they become dangerously acute. It contemplates the elimination of the causes of conflict and war. Feeling thus I cannot but believe that our country should be among the most devoted adherents of such a principle."

"In view of these sentiments you will not doubt the sincerity with which I assure you how greatly I appreciate the testimony of approval which the Senate resolution has brought to me. Nor will you, I trust, omit to recognize the satisfaction with which I acknowledge the fact that the first testimonial which has come to me from any legislative body in the nation comes from my own State of Ohio."

WOMAN BEATS OFF WOLF

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 5.—Miss Eva Hawkins was attacked Saturday night by a wolf as she left the store of her father at Midway, seven miles west of here. She beat it off after it had bitten her on the upper part of her body. In attempting to escape the wolf broke a large plate-glass window in the store.

Several farmers report lambs and pigs missing and it is believed that the wolf is attacking stock.

$1 A GALLON FOR GASOLINE SEEN AS POSSIBILITY BY THE LA FOLLETTE OIL COMMITTEE

Complete Domination of the Industry by Standard Companies Alleged in Report Submitted to the Senate by Subcommittee After 3-Month Inquiry.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 5.—"A dollar a gallon for gasoline" is the prospect held up for the consumer in the report of the La Follette oil investigating committee to the Senate, unless means are taken to break what the report declares to be a complete domination and control of the oil industry by the Standard Oil companies. If a few great oil companies are permitted to "manipulate prices" during the next few years as they have been doing since 1920, the report, presented yesterday, said, the people of the country may be prepared "before long" to pay "at least" that price.

As the result of a three-month inquiry into conditions in the industry, the report declared the Standard companies, in violation of the 1911 dissolution decree of the Supreme Court, exercise their alleged control in such a manner as to fix "the price which the producer of crude oil receives at the well, the price which the refiner receives for his gasoline and the price which the retail trade receives for the product."

Asserting that the "more subtle" methods of such control place the industry and the public even "more completely at the mercy of the Standard Oil interests" than before, the Supreme Court decree dissolving the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and its subsidiaries, the report declared that "with slight exceptions" there is still a total avoidance of competition of the lavish and wasteful manner in which their business is conducted when the public pays everything and is consulted about nothing."

Report Called Unfair. Robert W. Stuart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, said in a statement issued here last night that in his opinion the report of the La Follette Oil Investigating Committee was unfair to his company and to the oil industry generally. The Standard of Indiana, Stuart declared, does not exercise monopoly, but has no understanding of any kind of any character with any of the other Standard interests. He also asserted that the investigation had been so conducted as to deprive the Standard of Indiana of all opportunity to lay its case before the public.

"Findings Wholly Without Foundation," Teagle Says.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 5.—W. C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, last night issued the following statement in reference to the charges of the La Follette Oil Investigating Committee:

"The findings of fact made by the committee, so far as the touch of my company directly or indirectly, are wholly without foundation in truth and without support in the record. Practically the only references made to the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) during the hearings were in my own testimony, under oath, in the course of which I described fully and frankly this company's position in the oil industry and its profits, practices and policies."

"To anyone who has followed the proceedings before the subcommittee, the findings of the La Follette inquiry and the resulting report are based upon the preconceived notion assumed without proof, that there still exists among the various so-called Standard Oil companies in defiance of the dissolution decree of 1911, a combination or conspiracy to dominate the American petroleum industry, to which the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) is a party."

"My positive and unqualified denial before the subcommittee of the existence of any such combination, as well as my statements concerning all other material matters stands absolutely without contradiction to the record."

"The subcommittee's prediction of dollar gasoline is ridiculous. As to any unjustifiable increase in the price of gasoline I will say that the availability of industrial alcohol, benzol and other substitute motor fuels at moderate prices fixes a limit beyond which the price of gasoline cannot rise."

USUAL FLOOD OF SONG AND ORATORY AS CONGRESS ENDS

Country Today Faces the Now Unaccustomed Prospect of Nine Months Without a Session.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The country today faces the now unaccustomed prospect of nine months without a session of Congress. The Sixty-seventh Congress has passed into history and, incidentally, with its four sessions, set a new record for future Congresses to shoot at in the extent of time actually spent in legislative halls. The exodus of members and former members of the Senate and House who toiled through the sessions is in full swing, while Washington is trying to accustom itself to the comparatively drab and prosaic life ahead.

Since die adjournment came yesterday with the bang of the Senate gavel sharply at noon, until the House adjourned minutes later after a brief final session conspicuously lacking in the thrills of the protracted hours of some other Congresses. The closing in the House had the usual colorful qualities of song and sentimental formalities, with a section of the marine band on hand to fill out the program. The rendition of old favorites by an impromptu quartet of members warmed the whole House and most of the spectators in the crowded galleries to a lusty swelling of the chords.

Financial Statistics.

The report, after presenting financial statistics from various Standard companies showing exorbitant profits in the opinion of the committee, said the Standard stockholders and a Coroners' jury exonerated the die adjournment.

$75,000 BEQUEST TO HOUSEKEEPER IN FLORIST'S WILL

George Waldhart, 69, Also Left Residence and Two

rion B. Campbell.

10,000 AND FARM FOR WOMAN'S SON

Four Employes, to Whom He Sold Business for Nominal Price, Bequeathed $1000 Each.

George Waldhart, 69 years old, who died Saturday and was buried today, bequeathed to his housekeeper, Mrs. Marion B. Campbell, his residence at 3655 East Pine boulevard, $75,000 and two automobiles and left $10,000 and a farm in the Groby road, near Clayton, to his son, Leslie M. Campbell.

The will, filed for probate this afternoon, describes Mrs. Campbell as Waldhart's "housekeeper and friend for 35 years," and says that in addition to that attachment the bequest to her is in recognition of her great service in nursing him through an extreme illness. To Dr.
William Kiel of 3609 Lindell boulevard is left $5000 "for his services in my life."

Waldhart was buried in one of four crypts in a mausoleum in Bellfontaine Cemetery. His will provides that the other places shall be for Mrs. Campbell, her son, and her son's wife, if he marries, and for no one else. Mrs. Campbell, her son and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. are made executors.

To St. Francis Xavier's Catholi-Church, where services for him were held this morning, Waldhart left $1000.

Waldhart conducted a floral shop at 516 North Grand boulevard, near Olive street. This is sold to four sons of Andrew Hoffmann, George, J. Kilmer, Frederick, Max, and David Banzhaf, for a nominal price, some time ago. His will, made July 19, 1918, in advance of that date, provided that the business should be left to them if they conducted it harmoniously, but if they failed to do so it should revert to the estate. To each of these $1000 is bequeathed.

There is a legacy of $1000 to a niece, Aline W. Hart, and $5 each is left to three nephews, Alex Elchard, George, and Eddie, and a niece, Emily Waldhart. The gift had been provided for the florist's half-brother, Alex Wald-hart Sr., who was in the same business and who died last March.

The residue of the estate is left to a sister of Waldhart, Anna Herrmann, and three nieces, Anna, Marie and Elsa Herman, all of Baden-Baden, Germany, and a nephew, Edwin Hermann, of Karlsruhe, Germany. A wartime provision had been inserted in the will, providing for payment of their shares after hostilities ceased.

One of the florist's old employees has estimated the value of his estate at more than $500,000. Last year a woman sued Waldhart for alleged breach of promise, but on Dec. 19 a demurral to her petition was suspended by the Circuit Court and a judgment entered for the defendant.
Waldhart was a bachelor.

Waldhart came to St. Louis 43 years ago from Baden-Baden. He conducted the Grand boulevard hardware shop for 27 years until 1918.

H. C. G. LUYTIES ESTATE $77,000
AFTER ALL CLAIMS ARE PAID

Residue Under Terms of Will to Go Equally to Son and Illegitimate Son.

Final settlement of the estate of Herman C. G. Luyties, manufacturer of toilet preparations, who died Sept. 17, 1921, as disclosed in a ruling by Probate Judge Holtcamp today, shows that the residue, after all claims are paid, will be $77, 000.

The Judge granted to George H. Luyties, 18 years old, acknowledged legitimate son of Luyties $1600 for support. The boy is in custody of his mother, Mrs. Claire Lademan Keefe Giles, who divorced her last husband, Neville Giles, a salesman, last June.

Under the terms of Luyties' will the residue of his estate was to be divided equally between George H. Luyties and Herman C. G.
Luyties Jr., son of Luyties by his first marriage. Although Luyties at one time intended to be a millionaire, he developed after his death
that his estate was heavily involved, even his tombstone being pledged.

SCHOOL TEACHER KILLED IN ST. CHARLES BY AUTO

Shoeworker Not Arrested After Striking Miss Bernadine Eads, 19 Years Old.

Miss Bernadine Eads, 19 years old, of 1222 North Fifth street, St. Charles, a school teacher, died at St. Joseph's Hospital there at 11:45 o'clock last night after being struck by an automobile when on her way home from a theater about an hour and a half before.

The automobile was driven by Harry Halbruegger, 23, a shoeworker, of 306 North Sixth street, St. Charles. Miss Eads was crossing Second street at Monroe avenue with persons who had just left a motion picture show. Halbruegger said he could not stop in time to prevent the collision. Witnesses said he was not driving fast. He was not arrested.

Alphonse J. Dulle, 21, of 3440 De

Kalb street, suffered cuts over the eyes and other injuries when in trying to avoid another machine at Fifteenth and O'Fallon streets, he hit his automobile against a mail box and into the wall of a building.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Reichfeldt and their two small daughters, of 2512A Labadie avenue, suffered sprains between the machine and an automobile driven by Charles Frick, 4039 Garfield avenue in Fairground Park. Other persons suffering minor injuries in collisions were Fred Zolper, 2007 Madison street; Joseph Blong, 2354 St. Vincent avenue; Joseph Streib, 4018 California avenue; Benjamin Portman, 1619 Wash street; and Louis Rehnfeldt, Mrs. Rehnfeldt and another woman and child suffered minor injuries, cuts and bruises.

Taxicab Chauffeur Freed.

Fred Buchanan, chauffeur for the Diamond Taxicab Co., was dismissed by Police Judge Homer today in what is considered to be a victory for the Yellow Taxicab company to preempt a regularly prescribed stand.

James Smith, a negro, of 2707 Lucas avenue, suffered scalp wounds, cuts and bruises when an automobile he was driving was hit by a Lee avenue street car on Carr street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets.

REMMERS STATES HE VOTED FOR REED

Asserts He Supported Democratic Senator Because He Opposed Prohibition.

Taxicab Chauffeur Freed.

Oliver T. Remmers, attorney for Anheuser-Busch, Inc., candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the Board of Aldermen, today gave to reporters at the city hall a prepared statement in which he says that he voted for United States Senator James A. Reed.

Attorneys for Buchanan contend that a particular taxicab company was not empowered to use a given statement calls attention to the fact that Remmers referred to the Reed straight in St. Louis in a speech last week, but did not publicly announce, until today, that he voted for Reed.

The statement says that Walter J. G. Neun, chairman of the Republican City Central Committee, who is opposing Remmers for the aldermanic nomination, issued statements urging Republicans to support a "dry candidate" for the United States Senate, "although it was apparent that Senator Reed would carry St. Louis on the wet and dry issue."

Remmers states the situation became so serious that it was found the entire Republican city ticket would be defeated. He said several Republican factional leaders appealed to him to save the day and that he then organized the Liberal Republican Committee.

Remmers said he will be satisfied if all St. Louis Republicans who vote for Reed in November will vote for him next Friday. His statement ends with the fact that 1220 St. Louis went Republican by 60,000 votes, while Reed carried the city by 42,000 in 1922, that indicates a Republican loss of 100,000 votes. Remmers declares.

Remmers concludes with the statement that it is well known that 50 per cent of the Republican city hall employees voted for Reed.

FATHER THE "FLU"

Epidemic Leaves Much Suffering

While the "flu" epidemic which swept the country but a short time ago, not so severe as the former outbreak, it left behind it thousands of people who were weakened and run-down.

In just such conditions as these, Father John's Medicine has proven of greatest value.

Its rich food elements are so scientifically balanced that they build new strength and health without imposing a heavy burden upon the weakened digestive system. It is a safe, non-stimulating tonic because it does not stimulate, but actually builds new strength through adding more energy to the food that is taken up. It is safe for all the family to take, and is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

ACCLAIMED BRAVEST OF YEAR

Royal Humane Society Honors British Midshipman as Life Saver.

LONDON, March 5.—For a thrilling rescue from drowning Peter C. Hutton, a midshipman, was acclaimed by the Royal Humane Society to be the bravest man of the year.

His feat, for which he was awarded a gold medal, was performed when the ill-fated British cruiser Laforey met disaster on the coast of Labrador last August. Hutton saved a mate from drowning when a boat capsized, throwing 11 men into a heavy sea. He had gained a place of safety when he saw a companion being rapidly carried away by the surf. Regardless of his own safety, and after a heroic struggle, he rescued the man.

MOSCOW Deaths Again Exceed Births.

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.—Deaths in Moscow in 1922 again exceeded the births. The former numbered 41,107 and the latter 35,165. Large numbers of refugees from the famine districts caused the high death rate.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza Gripe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blisters.

Just rub it on your finger-tips.

First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

Costumes Dresses Wraps in the Spring Exposition and Sale,

SPRING—the Glorifier. What charm and magic it brings to the World of Fashion. Springtime Gowns and Wraps are first to share in this glory. Much of the secret of their lure lies in color and a new expression of combined smartness and simplicity in their lines.

CHIFFONS always suggest the sprightly airiness of Spring, and many of the new Nemzer dinner Gowns are in that material, in happy blendings of shades as soft as mountain haze to the most riotous colorings. Bird's egg blue, Lanvin green, atmospheric grays and new shades of tan, such as barley, bisque, beach and sand, are favorites, and bewildering blends of figured chiffons come in severely simple lines. Direct from Paris comes the front-drape effect, caught up enticingly with handsome beaded ornaments and cabochons. In fact beads are still in high vogue, but they are superfine in quality and reflect every hue of the rainbow to match the iridescent charm of the costume.

OUR street Dresses are most individual and distinctive; there are models by both Nemzer and Harry Collins, the well-known makers. Smart flannels also are featured, both plain and checked for country club wear. In fact Dresses for every occasion are to be found in this momentous showing.

NEVER has there been more of a demand for Spring Coats and Wraps, and never have we had a better selection from which to choose. The all-black Cape is extremely smart, in flat crepe, trimmed with monkey and chinola furs; and bisque-crepe Wraps are trimmed with Belgian hare collars and wide bands. Angel and batwing sleeves add to their elegance. Also sports Coats and general utility Coats appear in a numerous array of styles and fabrics, all at exceedingly modest prices.

Why 600,000 Americans now bathe internally

9 out of 10 people are working at only half the efficiency they should enjoy—that's what science reveals.

Hundreds of recent tests have shown that 9 out of 10 men and women are suffering from constipation and "auto-intoxication"—they are carrying around inside them, at all times, large colonies of poisonous germs. Cathartics cannot remove this trouble. They bring at best only partial relief.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell devoted years of his life to a study of "Auto-intoxication". More than 600,000 men and women have benefited by his research.

Dr. Tyrrell's method was the internal bath. And for its proper and easy administration he perfected what is known as the "J.B.L. Cascade". No other method and no cathartic can do the work for which the Cascade was specifically designed.

The story of Dr. Tyrrell's research and the "how and why" of internal bathing are extremely interesting. They have been put into a book entitled "Why Man of Today Is Only 50 Per Cent Efficient". This book is free to anyone, and it should be read by every man and woman. We will be glad to mail or give you a copy of this book on request. There is no obligation involved.

GOLTRA FORMALLY TOLD TO TURN OVER BARGES

St. Louisan Confers With Attorneys After Demand on Him by Ashburn.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20 Wyand Building.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Formal notice of the abrogation of the contract under which he is the lessee of a fleet of river barges and tow-boats from the Government was served on Edward F. Goltra of St. Louis here at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The cancellation notice, approved by the Secretary of War, was handed to Goltra in his room at the Washington Hotel by Col. T. Q. Ashburn, chief of the Inland and Coastwise Waterways Service of the army.

Goltra, according to Ashburn, appeared greatly surprised and said that he had done nothing to warrant the War Department's action. The cancellation was made on the ground that Goltra, by failing to put the leased boats into operation as common carriers, had violated the contract. A demand was made on him for immediate surrender of the boats—19 barges and 4 tow-boats—to the Government.

Consults With Attorneys.

Goltra asked for time in which to make up his mind whether he would turn over the boats with or without a legal contest. Immediately after the serving of the notice he called in a firm of attorneys, Palmer, Davis and Scott, who are former Attorney-General of the United States and Scott and Davis are former Assistant Attorneys-General.

Ashburn said this morning that the case for the Government was now in the hands of the Department of Justice, which would probably allow Goltra a "reasonable time" in which to make up his mind whether or not he would contest the cancellation order.

Consultations between Goltra and his attorneys on the one side and War and Justice Department officials on the other were in progress during the morning. As told in the Washington Star, Secretary of War Weeks reached a final decision Saturday, after long deliberation and on the basis of an opinion by the Department of Justice, to cancel the Goltra contract.

Immediate Operating Planned.

Armed with the necessary papers Ashburn was making plans to depart for St. Louis and set about taking over the boats for the Government. He assumed that Goltra was in St. Louis. Goltra, as it happened, was there. Saturday afternoon Goltra called at the War Department and said he had heard of a decision by the Department of Justice relating to his contract. Col. Ashburn was notified, called off his trip to St. Louis and waited out the final Goltra decision.

Ashburn said that he would go to St. Louis to make plans for putting the boats into immediate operation on the river in connection with the established Government service, unless deterred by court proceedings.

Ashburn said that, although there was no appropriation for a service on the upper river, he had recommended to the Secretary of War that some of the boats be utilized on that stretch. He believed that this plan would be carried out. He believed, he said, that he would be able to show a prospective freight shortage on the upper river that would enable the boats to pay their own way without aid from Government funds.

30 EVANGELISTS START BAPTIST REVIVAL HERE

The 69 Baptist churches in St. Louis and St. Louis County began a two weeks' revival with simultaneous evangelistic services yesterday. The campaign, which will close March 18, is in both negro and white churches.

Thirty evangelists and their song leaders occupied pulpits yesterday. The Rev. Dr. J. W. Beagle of Kansas City, evangelistic secretary for Missouri, is in charge. Special music is provided by 2000 singers in chorus choirs.

During this and next week services in all the Baptist churches will be held each evening and twice on Sunday. A daily workers' conference at the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, will be held at 11 a. m.

KOLYNOS AS A HEALTH MEASURE

I used to be said, "The only good Indian is a dead Indian."

The only good pneumonia germ (pneumococcus) is a dead pneumococcus, or one under control.

If, by the simple process of brushing your teeth you can help control such dangerous germs in your mouth and throat, isn't it, reasonably speaking, a good thing to do?

Help Your Physician, Too

When you have had an attack of influenza—when the newly isolated bacterium pneumosintes has paid a visit to your lungs, their surface has been denuded of their protection against pneumonia and bronchitis germs.

Your only safeguard is to control these deadly follow-up germs while they remain in your mouth and throat—before they reach your lungs.

It is here that the germicidal property of Kolynos Dental Cream asserts itself. It has been shown by experiments recognized in the world of science and reported in scientific journals that Kolynos destroys and exercises control over propagating germs, including pneumococci, in the mouth and throat.

Over 90 per cent of the diseases that flesh is heir to enter the system by way of the mouth. The bacteria which cause them find a most favorable resting and breeding place in the mouth and throat membrane, in the cavities of the teeth and in the spaces between the teeth.

Take these enemies of health at this gateway! Keep your mouth scrupulously and hygienically clean. Brush vigorously three times a day with Kolynos Dental Cream—and your duty to your physician is done; for you are helping him fight disease, in the most enlightened way, as well as helping your dentist to fight decay.

"How Clean My Mouth Feels"

Only Once This Year

This advertisement is published to clear away all doubt that the ONLY time the people of St. Louis will be asked to aid in the forty organizations represented by the Community Fund for 1928 is NOW.

It has been learned that a number of contributors are holding back their contributions with the idea that individual collections will be taken after the campaign is over, and that they can then give the whole amount of their contributions to certain organizations which they prefer.

This is an absolutely erroneous idea. Every one of the forty has pledged itself unequivocally to confine its solicitations for funds for 1928 to this one campaign. It was upon this unqualified pledge that each of them came into the Community Fund campaign. There will be no breach of good faith in keeping this pledge. The public may rest assured of that.

And this means that, if you wish to aid ANY of these forty organizations during 1928, you must do it through the Community Fund plan—AND DO IT NOW.

Immediate action is imperative, for the reason that the campaign will close TOMORROW. There is not a minute to lose.

THIS IS THE LAST CALL.

So make out your contribution NOW. Telephone it in—mail it in—or bring it in to Community Fund, Room 922 Central Bank Bldg.—any way at all so you get it in today. Phone: Olive 5230.

MASS MEETING CALLED TO ACT ON SCHOOL BILLSOrganizations Asked to Take Part in Gathering to Consider Means for Defeating Measures.

Effective action for the defeat in the State Legislature of the Chase and Nettle bills, which it has been held, would put the St. Louis Board of Education back into politics, will be considered at a mass meeting at Central High School, Grand boulevard and Windsor place, at 8 o'clock tonight, which has been called by representatives of 12 civic organizations.

Invitations to many civic, welfare, educational and other interested organizations to be represented at the mass meeting by speakers to give one-minute talks were sent out Friday. The call said, in part:

"The fact has been made known to us that many civic organizations have wisely adopted a resolution opposing the Chase and Nettle bills. Although the Nettle bill has apparently been killed in committee, the Chase bill remains upon the informal calendar, and until the close of the session we cannot feel free from danger from one or both of these bills. We are, therefore, calling a mass meeting of civic and similar organizations, and we trust that you will be well represented by a full attendance at this meeting from your organizations."

Those Signing Letter.

The letter was signed by the following officers of organizations: Edgar Gundersen, Chamber of Commerce; Mr. J. Alvin Andrew, Women's Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. John S. Payne, Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs; E. J. Russell, Nonpartisan School Board Campaign Committee; Herman Speicher, Rothen Club; Arthur Stoehr, Tenth Ward Improvement and Taxpayers' Association; Frank W. Swann, Kiwanis Club; Dr. William H. Vogt, St. Louis Medical Society; Hugh K. Warner, Million Population Club and General St. Louis Conference; C. R. Watkins, Carondelet Improvement Association.

The Nettle bill, which would have forced candidates for the Board of Education to contest at the municipal primary along with candidates for political offices, was killed by the House Committee on Elections Feb. 27, but its author, Representative Nettle of St. Louis, said he would try to get the House to take the bill up for engrossment over the adverse committee report. The Chase bill would restore the old convention system of nominating candidates for the board.

The nonpartisan School Board Campaign Committee, which has been active in the fight against these bills, is working for the election of six members of the board who have been nominated by petition, as follows: Mrs. Elias Michael and H. F. Fahrenkrog, present members; Dr. Walter H. Fuchs, Robert H. Ballman, Alexander S. Langsdorf and Joseph E. Woracek.

Organizations on Record.

Mrs. E. R. Kroeger, vice chairman of this committee, has announced that 53 organizations have gone on record as opposing the bills to return the schools to politics, including the following:

Community Council, Consumers' League, Columbia Mothers' Club, Stix School patrons, Webster School Welfare Club, Civitan Club, O'Fallon Park Protective Association, Greater St. Louis Conference, International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers, Associated Military Traveling Salesmen, Million Population Club, Carondelet Women's Club, Chamber of Commerce, Carondelet Improvement Association, Rotary Club, Lions' Club, Tenth Ward Improvement and Taxpayers' Association, Architectural Club, Masonic Builders' Association, Ryan Military Fathers' Teachers' Association, Retail Coal Dealers' Association, League of Women Voters, Fountain Park Improvement and Protective Association, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Ministerial Alliance Good Will Club, Friday Club, Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, Wednesday Club, Women's Chamber of Commerce, Board of Religious Organizations, Church Federation, McKinley Parent-Teachers' Association, Council of Jewish Women, Mitz Lodge, St. Louis Coal Dealers' Association, Underwriters' Association, Ashland School Mothers' Club, Solard High School Mothers' Club, Southwestern Mercantile Association, Webster School Mothers' Club, Associated Laundry Owners, Kiwanis Club and Cote Brilliante Parent-Teachers' Association.

Hampering Amendment Dies
After Chairman Cave finds
It Would Divert Road
From His District.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 5.—All threatened danger of legislation to wreck or interfere with the State Highway Department, has passed.

It is assumed that the road laws will not be changed in the slightest degree, the Senate Committee on Roads which two weeks ago was rampant to curtail the powers of the commission having decided that the proposed amendment to the road law should slumber in the committee and die there at the end of the session.

Angered by the plain speech of Chairman Gary of the commission that the Commissioners believed they had the right to change road designations from those fixed by the commission, and that they intended to make such changes as they believed for the betterment of the road system, several Senators, including Senator Painter, President of the Senate, Senator Clegg, chairman of the Roads Committee, and Senator Irwin, became highly incensed and insisted that "Gary would be shown a thing or two."

When Gary learned through articles in the Post-Dispatch and from other sources that the Senators were aggrieved and intended to retaliate by inserting in the law a provision specifically prohibiting the commission from changing any designation, he hurried to Jefferson City from Kansas City and addressed a public meeting in the Capitol. In his speech he reiterated what all from his former position, but gave the legislators to understand that if they tampered with the road law and created a condition by which Missouri would be deprived of Federal aid for roads, the responsibility would be theirs.

After this Chairman Cave called another meeting of his committee, the purpose being to put through the proposed amendment, but before the meeting a light dawned for him. He discovered that the proposed amendment offered by Senator Irwin of Jefferson City, was cleverly worded in his district, and could easily work to the great advantage of Irwin's district.

In laying out the through St. Louis-Kansas City road, the Highway Commission fixed the route north of the Missouri River westward from St. Louis, cutting through the middle of Cave's district. Jefferson City, in Irwin's district, had been a contendee for the road.

It became known to Cave that if the commission was deprived of the right to change designations, it would be unable to build the north-of-the-river through highway because the designations were such that the commission would be required to route the road either over a ferry on the Missouri River at Rocheport, or carry it 20 miles out of a direct route, neither of which it would be apt to do. An alternative would be to cross the south of the river, route through Irwin's district. When Cave discovered this, he lost interest in the amendment.

Although Cave today would only say that the amendment had not been acted upon by the committee and that he did not know what the action would be, it was learned from other sources that the

DANDRUFF SURELY DESTROYS THE HAIR

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It does no good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arova; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely remove it, and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arova at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

DEMOCRATS FEAR FOR THEIR PROGRAM IN LEGISLATURELeaders Worried by Failure of Party Members in House to Show Interest in 12 Bills.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 5.—With only two weeks of the session of the Legislature remaining, there is developing a real fear by Democratic leaders of the Senate and House that their legislative program is in danger of defeat.

The concern as to the fate of the 12 "program" bills has been even greater since the caucus of Democrats in the House Friday night.

Although the opposition to the measures developed in the caucus, the danger to the program lies in the almost complete lack of interest among the House members and the fact that only 55 of the 84 Democrats in the House attended the caucus. If there should be united Republican opposition to the Democratic program bills, as is not improbable, 75 Democratic votes would be required to pass them.

In the Senate the Democratic leaders have been overwhelmed in numbers of members and the Republicans by prolonged debates and long speeches have delayed action on important measures. Of the 12 bills on the Democratic program only three have passed the Senate and none has passed the House. Three have not even been engrossed in the Senate. This condition in view of the fact that none of the big appropriation bills, either of which could easily occupy the time of each house two or three days, has passed, puts the fate of the "program" really in doubt.

Move for Limit on Debate.

The Democrats have pending in the Senate a proposed amendment to the rules to limit the debate on any measure to four hours, but it is doubtful if this would be effective against a seriously intended Republican filibuster. The only certain way the Democrats have is to cold-bloodedly shut off all debate by a motion for the previous question on each measure as rapidly as they are taken up. This would be an innovation in Senate procedure, the rule being that any motion may talk as often and as long as he pleases about anything or about nothing.

The four-hour rule could not prevent the offering of any of a number of dilatory motions, consideration of which would occupy much time, and it could not stop the offering of numberless amendments to bills which were up for engrossment.

The only bills of the program which have passed the Senate and have gone to the House are those abolishing the traveling auditors in the State Auditorium, and transferring to the Food and Drug Inspection Department all the duties of the Beverage Inspection and Hotel Inspection Departments.

Measures Engrossed by Senate.

The measures which have been engrossed but which have not passed the Senate, are those abolishing the State Tax Commission, creating the office of State Examiner of Accounts, one bill affecting the time and place for filing corporation returns, the bill reducing the State tax rate from 1 cents to 5 cents, the bill designating the State blue book as the official calendar, and the bill releasing the requirement that the Secretary of State publish each year a complete list of all holders of automobile licenses.

A bill creating a Department of Revenue and Disbursement and another bill affecting the time and place of filing corporation returns remain to be engrossed, as does the bill making changes in the Public Service Commission law.

Although the Public Service Commission bill was a special order for engrossment for Thursday morning, it has not yet been taken up and may not be for several days. As a matter of fact, in the light of amendments which were recommended by the committee on private corporations, no material changes will be made in the present law, and the Public Service Commission may continue about as it has in the past.

The only changes now proposed are that the number of commissioners shall be reduced from five to four, that the commissioners shall hold hearings in the city or town which would be affected by the case under consideration, that the counsel for the commission shall serve as counsel for the public or any municipality and that the cost of making audits and inventories shall be borne by the utility making application for rate increase.

In the House caucus the only program bills considered were three which have passed the Senate. The House members present agreed to support them, but the House leaders do not feel at all certain that when the time comes to vote on the measures there will be sufficient number of Democrats in their seats to pass the bills. The Republicans so far have not given any intimation as to whether they will take a united stand against the program bills.

The House will have another caucus Tuesday night, at which the remaining bills on the program will be considered.

Cork, Linseed Oil, Burlap—that's Linoleum

ARE you sure you know what linoleum is—this material which so many people have learned is good for floors? Linoleum is a combination of cork, oil, and burlap. It is a union of substances that blend together naturally to form a floor that, point by point, is superior to any kind of floor that man has devised. To appreciate the advantages of a linoleum floor, you must understand the qualities of the natural products from which linoleum is made.

What the cork gives

You have probably handled hundreds of ordinary cork stoppers, but have you ever really examined a piece of cork to study what its special properties are?

Cork is the outer bark of the cork oak. It is light. It will float in water. Cork is elastic. You can compress it and when released it will spring back to its original shape. Throw it on the floor and it will rebound.

Cork is nonabsorbent and moisture-proof. You can use it to stop a full bottle; lay the bottle on its side for years and the cork will hold the contents. Cork resists decay. It is a good heat-insulator, which makes it warm to the touch, summer or winter.

Cork is tough. It does not scratch or abrade easily, nor will it scratch or mar other surfaces.

These are the qualities that cork gives to linoleum.

What the linseed oil gives

Linoleum gets its name from linseed oil, which is pressed from flaxseed. Linseed oil is the same oil used in paint, which, when exposed to air, turns to a tough, solid film of skin. This film is smooth and rubbery and practically waterproof. When mixed with powdered cork these two substances unite perfectly. The tough oil skin, combined

After cork stoppers have been punched from strips of cork bark, the remainder of the cork strips is saved up and used in making linoleum.

Linoleum has every quality that a modern floor should have.

The linoleum floor is smooth, resilient, and enduring. It is waterproof and the easiest of all floors to clean and keep clean. It can be kept looking new year after year by an occasional waxing and polishing. It is extremely quiet and, because cork is a nonconductor of heat, is never cold to the touch. The linoleum floor is comfortable, beautiful, sanitary, and yet inexpensive because it never requires costly refinishing. It does not splinter and does not absorb grease, dust, or stains.

with the cork, becomes remarkably durable. The daily tread of thousands of feet makes little impression upon it. Also, it can be printed with patterns or designs that do not fade; or it can be colored throughout its entire thickness with colors that are permanent as the linoleum itself. This is what is known as laid linoleum.

These are the qualities that linseed oil gives to linoleum.

What the burlap gives

This mixture of cork and oxidized linseed oil is not truly linoleum until it has been pressed or "keyed" into a fabric of tough, strong burlap. This burlap back provides a solid foundation and prevents tearing. There is no surer way to identify genuine linoleum than by this woven burlap back. The Armstrong trademark, a Circle "A," appears clearly on the back of all Armstrong's Linoleum. It is this sturdy, flexible, non-tearing quality that burlap gives to linoleum.

Burlap is made from jute which grows in the marshy districts of Bengal in India.

Armstrong's Linoleum
for Every Floor in the House

That is the kind of floor linoleum offers to either the new or the old home.

Linoleum in interior decoration

The wealth of colors and patterns in which Armstrong's Linoleum is made has given architects and interior decorators an opportunity to suggest permanent linoleum floors that are artistically a part of the room itself. Well-chosen floors of linoleum blend with the color schemes of walls, furniture and draperies. Rugs are placed on these floors as on any permanent floor.

Armstrong's Linoleum is sold in good furniture and department stores in rich plain colors, beautiful two-tone Jaspé effects, parquetry inlays, tile inlays, carpet inlays and pleasing printed designs. Estimates furnished by linoleum contractors or house furnishers will surprise you at the low cost of replacing worn wooden floors or installing Armstrong's Linoleum floors in a new home. The Armstrong Cork Company maintains a Bureau of Interior Decoration for the purpose of giving advice on this subject, without charge.

Laying linoleum for permanency

In summer wood floors expand. In winter they dry out and contract, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builder's deadening felt which has been previously glued to the bare floor boards. The felt takes up expansion and contraction and gives you a permanent, waterproof, good-looking floor. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.

Let us send you a sample of Armstrong's Linoleum and our 12-page booklet, "New Floors for Old." The booklet contains a score of colorplates of distinctive designs in Armstrong's Linoleum that you can see at good stores; also, information on laying linoleum and how to care for your linoleum floors.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

America Fought Mexico When Attempt to Persuade That Country to Sell Us Territory Needed for Our Expansion Failed.

A Fort Was Built on the Rio Grande.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of the "Story of Mankind."

(Copyright, 1923)

JAMES K. POLK, of Tennessee, was the eleventh President (1845-1849). His principal task was the direction of our war with Mexico (1846-1848).

There are always two reasons for every war. The first and real reason, the fundamental reason, is the one which the stronger side never admits, and the weaker often fails to realize. Such was the case in 1846.

American immigrants from Oregon were moving south into California and the possession of San Francisco harbor was necessary to our expansion. Polk, knowing this, and hoping to secure it by peaceful means, sent John Slidell, a very intelligent lawyer of New Orleans, to Mexico to try and buy both California and New Mexico, and to persuade the Mexican Government that the Rio Grande should be the southern boundary of Texas.

But the Mexican Government was so angry with us because we had annexed Texas, which they regarded as their own rebellious child, that Slidell could not get them to listen to him, so he came back to Washington. It was plain that if we wanted California and New Mexico, we would have to take them by force. We did want them, and the force was consequently applied. This was the real reason of the war.

Now for the second, and obvious cause. The old southern boundary of Texas had been the Nueces River. Santa Anna, after his defeat by the Texan Army, had agreed that the southern boundary should be the Rio Grande. I told you that the Mexican Government never acknowledged Santa Anna's Treaty, but this did not worry the Texans. They had possession, while the Mexican Government was busy with various troubles at home, and had neither the men nor the money to press their claims.

The disputed region between the Nueces and the Rio Grande was uninhabited and of no particular value to either side, but the Texans persisted in their claim, and President Polk decided to help them uphold it. The road to San Francisco lay along the Rio Grande, but those who knew, preserved a discreet silence, and the American soldiers laid down their lives upon the battlefields of Mexico to keep back a foreign invader.

General Zachary Taylor, with 1500 men, had been stationed at Corpus Christi, just south of the mouth of the Nueces River, ready to move if Slidell's mission was a failure. When the news came, he started for the mouth of the Rio Grande, and the war was on.

The first move on the part of the Americans was to build a fort on the north side of the Rio Grande, the guns of which pointed at the Mexican town of Matamoras on the southern bank. The Mexicans considered this move on the part of the Americans an invasion of their territory, and General Ampudia crossed the Rio Grande and, surrounding a small scouting party of Americans, killed or captured them to the last man.

President Polk immediately declared that Mexico had begun the war by invading American territory, and Congress called for volunteers and voted $10,000,000 for expenses.

SARDIS ART TREASURES IN OWNERSHIP TANGLE

Priceless Objects Untouched as Result of Conflicting Claims of Turks and Americans.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Saved from burning Smyrna by the late Dr. Howard Crosby Butler of Princeton, who died as the result of his efforts to rescue the treasures he had dug from the site of ancient Sardis, capital of wealth-famed Croesus, between 50 and 60 packing cases of archeological objects lie unopened in the vaults of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. They may remain untouched a long time, it is believed.

While the American Society for the Excavation of Sardis claims the relics by right of salvage and firman issued by the deposed Sultan, Abdul Hamid, legal ownership is not yet a certainty. Efforts are being made to negotiate with the Turkish and Greek Governments in order that "the greatest treasure America has ever received from Asia Minor" may remain in this country.

An early Christian altar, "perhaps the most valuable," according to Dr. Butler, a huge Jonah capital from the temple of Artemis, together with jewels, coins, medallions, seals and Lydian sculptures compose part of the contents of the packing cases. A bilingual tablet containing inscriptions in Lydian and Aramaic may prove to be the Rosetta Stone of that early civilization, unlocking secrets of the industrial and banking center of the ancient world.

Under the agreement with Abdul Hamid, Turkey claimed everything found at Sardis. Therefore, no arrangements could be made with the Greeks, who acquired the site of Sardis and much of the excavated matter in 1918, when the Turks were in control, led by Kemal, avowedly hostile to the rule of the former Sultan. Thomas Hastings, chairman of the society which claims the relics, would not discuss the ownership tangle.

Some of the earliest objects found may be relics of the Hittites, Dr. Butler believed, but there is no certainty that anything yet discovered antedates the Lydian period which began in the seventh or eighth century B. C.

Terra cotta masks, bronze mirrors, clay lamps and gold ornaments are found in great numbers as the excavation went on during the early part of last year. All the discoveries are described in the first of what is planned to be a 17-volume report of the excavations started by Dr. Butler in 1910.

The late J. P. Morgan was instrumental in forming the Society for the Excavation of Sardis.

EXTRA SESSION
 TALK DISCOURAGED
 BY THE PRESIDENT

Political Earthquake or Sudden Emergency Necessary for Executive to Bring Congress Back Now.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE,
 A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

EN ROUTE TO FLORIDA WITH PRESIDENT HARDING, March 5. Two years ago Warren G. Harding went to Florida to prepare himself for the presidency; today he goes there to escape for a time at least the arduous tasks of executive office.

Behind him he leaves an atmosphere of fatigue, an exhausted officialdom, for, as usual, everything was left to the last moment by Congress, and the last 10 days have been filled with hours of panicky haste. Bills that needed weeks of careful consideration were given superficial attention by Congress, and it was not until the statutory hour for adjournment, which might well have occupied a whole session by itself, was passed in a few days. And the net result of it all is to place upon the executive and his Cabinet officers the responsibility of wisely executing the laws that are made and seeing to it that unless provisions are kept inoperative till Congress can come back to correct defects.

Extra-Session Talk Discouraged.
 That process is exactly what Mr. Harding complains about. Every day in every way, every week and every month, Congress adds to the burdens of the executive, who has told callers in recent weeks. So it is no wonder that he discourages all talk of a special session before December. It would take a political earthquake or sudden emergency for him to bring Congress back.

Mr. Harding is physically and mentally tired. He is not what one would call a robust individual. Ever since his youth, physicians have advised him to lead an outdoor life as much as possible. While in Ohio politics and later in the United States Senate, he was able to follow that advice scrupulously. But since he has been president he has been different. His favorite recreation has been golf, but he had not been President very long before word began to come from various parts of the country that some people thought he was playing golf too often.

It takes extraordinary determination to play while there is public business piled high on one's desk, and Mr. Harding for a long time took his recreation reluctantly but regularly. Then he began to play every other day and, finally, for several days at a time he didn't get any recreation. It began to tell on him. His caries became so bad that he began to fail. It took the President two weeks to recover from a slight cold and he still shows some of the effects of confinement.

Anxious About Wife's Health.
 Beside official worries, Mr. Harding has been anxious about the health of his wife. Her convalescence has been long. She has always been her husband's business adviser and the country knows but little of the deep interest she has taken in the solution of some of the more important tasks of the President's last two years. She is a woman of keen insight and keeps thoroughly informed all the time on current affairs.

What Congress trying to get a year's work done in a few weeks. Mrs. Harding ill and foreign affairs worrysome. Mr. Harding's regular daily program has been shot to pieces in the last three months. The trip to Florida has been looked forward to as the curative. Mrs. Harding has hoped her husband would detach himself completely from official burdens and really take a rest. Many a wife has hoped her busy husband would do the same thing. Some business men have succeeded in readily getting a mental rest when on vacation, but many have confessed failure to drive care from their minds.

President Harding is taking along a few officials, but not for the purpose of talking shop. They are men he has come to like as chums and companions. They will play bridge or golf as the case may be and help drive away the monotony which often overtakes an individual who tries vacation in solitude. Mr. Harding likes company.

Hughes to Stay on Job.
 Members of the Cabinet will slip away for a little rest during the month of March. Secretary Hughes may any day develop a crisis that needs American intervention. Mr. Harding counts on the officials remaining in Washington to inform him only of the most important developments that require his advice. Many a President has seen fit with such a determination only to find that he couldn't help doing at least some work every day. The Hardings hope they will have better luck and that the country and the world will kindly save its crisis till after the first of April, when the party returns to the national capital.

HARDING ORDER AIDS VETERANS

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, March 5.—One of President Harding's last acts before his departure for Florida was to direct the Civil Service Commission to give certain preference to veterans of the world war in their examinations for positions under the civil service.

Have Curly, Wavy Hair Like "Nature's Own"

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soup should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and better still, the accompanying directions, she will be glad to tell you.

Tuesday—5 A. M.

Special trans-oceanic test concert, given by Margaret Shirley-Smith, soprano; Agnes Gray, violinist; Vernon Henshaw, pianist.

8 P. M.

Mack Mudd, tenor; Lena Anton, violinist; George Cibula, pianist.

Two special test programs will be given by Station K S D this week. The first will be a special trans-oceanic voice transmission test for the purpose of determining how far out on the Pacific and the Atlantic Oceans K S D can be heard, at 5 a.m. This will take place tomorrow morning, and will be given by Mrs. Carroll Smith, soprano; Agnes Gray, violinist, and Vernon Henshaw, pianist.

The second program will be given Thursday night at 8 o'clock and will be a test for transmission to South America. It will be given entirely in Spanish, although the announcements will be given in both English and Spanish, and the participants in this program will be members of the Club Guadalupano of St. Louis.

The program has been arranged by the Mexican Consul, Francisco Alvarez, and the Rev. Father Mullally, who organized the Club Guadalupano. Owing to the fact that this program was announced for March 8, the usual weekly silent night will be changed, for this week only, from Thursday to Wednesday. Therefore, after 4 p. m. there will be no broadcasting from Station K S D Wednesday, while on Thursday there will be the Spanish program at 8 o'clock and the usual midnight program at 11:30 o'clock.

Government officials, radio enthusiasts and both amateurs and professionals in Europe and at stations in the Pacific have been notified of the transoceanic test and have been asked to report. Similar notices have been sent to the American Consuls and Consular Agents of all the countries of Central and South America, as well as in Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico and Bermuda, asking them to listen in for the Spanish program on Thursday night.

SPENCER LOSES
HIS LONG FIGHT
FOR GARESCHE

Senator, Hopeful to Last,
Can't Understand Why
His Candidate Was Not Named to Federal Bench.

DOWNED IN LAST
TUSSLE WITH FAUST

Postmaster-General New Issues Order Making Eliot Marshall Postmaster at St. Joseph.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON. March 5.—Senator Spencer lost his long fight to have former Circuit Judge Vital W.
Garesche named as Federal Judge
at St. Louis.

Spencer did not exert himself more strenuously or hopefully for Goldstein or for Newberry than he did for Judge Garesche. Almost all the droning work of Vice-Presidents Coolidge proclaimed the end of the Congress, he professed confidence that the President would nominate Garesche.

He must have suspected last Friday, however, that Garesche's chance was gone. On that day, after he had called at the White House to make an eleventh hour appeal for his candidate, he received a note from President Harding saying that the President was having great difficulty in making up his mind on the St. Louis judgeship.

Spencer "Can't Understand It."

"I cannot understand it," said
Spencer yesterday.

In spite of the plain intimation from the President that he would appoint no Judges in recess, except to fill vacancies caused by deaths or retirements; in spite, moreover, of the opinion of leading constitutional lawyers of the Senate that recess appointments to fill the judgeships cannot legally be made, Spencer reiterated that, in his judgment, the President would give the Eastern Missouri district a new Judge by a recess appointment, after his return from Florida.

In view of the Federal Court work piled up in that district, Spencer said it would be deplorable if the appointment could not be made until next December. He did not yet admit defeat, but thought that Garesche had a chance to get the recess appointment.

Asked why the President had not named him, Spencer replied: "I don't know, unless it was because of political opposition. Certainly there was nothing in Judge Garesche's record that should have prevented his nomination and confirmation."

Marshall Gets Postmanship.

One of the first official acts of Postmaster-General Harry New yesterday morning was to name Marshall acting Postmaster at St. Joseph. New, then, by nullified a protest by his former colleague, Senator Spencer, which had resulted in blocking the confirmation of Marshall in the last hours of the Congress. Spencer was supporting Charles D. Morris, newspaper publisher, for the place.

A letter was sent out today authorizing Marshall to take immediate charge of the office. He will receive the salary of the office just as if he had been confirmed. New's action gave Congressman Faust of St. Joseph the deciding fall in his tussle with Spencer over the appointment.

In conformity with the existing practice of letting Republicans Congressmen within the limits of an eligible list, name the Postmasters in their respective districts, Marshall was given the nomination. Spencer had backed Charles D. Morris, newspaper publisher, who was also on the eligible list, but had told Faust that if Marshall were named he would not further protest.

After the Marshall nomination came, in Spencer received long-distance telephone messages from several St. Joseph Republicans, including Morris himself, and the next morning he told Faust that he intended to block the confirmation of Marshall.

Faust replied wrathfully. Spencer unmoved carried out his design. All that was necessary was to ask that the nomination be laid aside for investigation. The request was granted, as "senatorial courtesy" demanded, and the nomination went over.
With the end of the session only a few hours off, this action, of course, meant the death of the nomination.

"I have blocked it," said Spencer, when questioned just before the session expired. "It will not be confirmed at this session."

Spencer said that he had taken this course because some of the most prominent Republicans of St. Joseph believed that more thought should be given to the matter. He added that if Faust insisted he could probably obtain the appointment of Marshall.

SMOKE REDUCED 80 PCT.
IN PITTSBURG AS RESULT OF CO-OPERATIVE EFFORT

City Now Sees Sunshine as Result of Research Work, Which Showed People How Smoke
Cost Them Dearly.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 5.—Eleven years ago Pittsburghers saw sunshine at intervals of days and sometimes weeks. Known the world over as the "Smoky City," Pittsburgh was truly a town of smoke, but a remarkable change has taken place, with the result that Old Sol now beams down almost daily. Day by day the town that once was clothed in smoke is getting cleaner and brighter, and today there is 80 per cent less smoke here than in the "cloudy" days prior to 1914.

Pittsburgh's fight against smoke was instituted in 1912, when the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, University of Pittsburgh, began an investigation. The investigation lasted two years and disclosed the nature, extent and cause of the smoke nuisance and the remedies that would make its abolition possible and practicable.

As a result of the research work, which was conducted by 30 specialists, including chemists, lawyers, architects, meteorologists and surgeons, the Municipal Bureau of Smoke Regulation was created in 1914, and adopted the recommendations set forth in the report submitted by these specialists. It has been functioning successfully since that time.

How Fight Was Waged.

In a recent report on smoke abatement,
H. B. Meller, superintendent of the bureau, said there was 80 per cent less smoke in the city. The percentage could have been greater
if the city had power to regulate stacks in the outlying districts.
Large industrial plants are situated in adjacent boroughs and these are responsible for considerable smoke that settles over the city at times. With a wind velocity of five or six miles, smoke from these plants along the three rivers is carried to Pittsburgh. The mills are outside the city, however, and therefore cannot be regulated, unless modern furnaces and stacks are installed in many mills and today few mills are without such apparatus which meets the approval of the officials.

During the war the smoke regulations were not strictly enforced, with the result that Pittsburgh soon returned to its smoky days, but only for a brief period, for after the war the city officials again issued orders to manufacturers, railroads and other industries to observe the law.

Smoke From Suburbs.

In a recent report on smoke abatement,
H. B. Meller, superintendent of the bureau, said there was 80 per cent
less smoke in the city. The percentage could have been greater
if the city had power to regulate stacks in the outlying districts.

Records to Be Consulted.

Records of the Board of Education on the number of children living in certain districts are to be consulted, Meller said, and conditions in each district investigated in determining the location of recreation centers.

When the bond issue was submitted proponents of the park and playground items urged development of a system of small parks and playgrounds in the crowded quarters, on the theory that persons most needing such municipal facilties would derive greater benefit from such a system than large acreage in outlying parks. Development of playgrounds in the congested districts was especially urged.

This was pointed out as a sure means of reducing juvenile delinquency through provision of adequate play and recreation facilities.

Last December, while the Council was framing the year's budget, it was suggested that the smoke bureau be abolished. Inasmuch as the city was apparently free of smoke, or as free as it ever would be. It was argued that the railroads and industrial plants needed no watching. Civic clubs, boards of trade and other organizations immediately filed vigorous protests against abolition of the bureau. The talk of abolishing it died without further discussion.

What the Report Shows.

The report developed these facts:
That Pittsburgh paid for its laundry work annually $41,000 more than Boston, $35,000 more than Buffalo,
$48,000 more than Cleveland, $125,- 000 more than Detroit, $27,000 more than Louisville, $52,000 more than Philadelphia; that other cities having a laundry bill similar to Pittsburgh and, therefore, as smoky, were Chicago, Cincinnati and St.
Louis. The total annual loss to Pittsburgh, due to smoke, prior to 1914, was estimated at $9,944,741.

NONBOLSHEVIKS REPORTED SHIFTING TO SOVIET IN RUSSIA

Co-operation Said to Have Been Promised on Condition of Certain Reforms Being Made.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS. March 5.—There has come from a representative Russian source a statement which shows a significant shifting in the attitude of the nonbolshevik elements towards the Russian regime and the definite abandonment of hope of crushing Russia from without.

This statement is the effect that when the Moscow Government shall have inaugurated reforms, such as recognition of the right of private property and a general extension of civil and political rights, all Russians throughout the world will work together for the reconstruction of their country, without awaiting the abolition of the soviet regime.

ident for going to Florida.

$12,000,000 SPENT IN RELIEF

Year Submitted to Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON. March 5.—A review of American relief activities in the Near East, showing expenditures during the past year of more than $12,000,000, was given to Congress yesterday by Charles V. Vickrey in his annual report as general secretary of the Near-East relief.

The number of orphans now under the care of the organization is 115,- 000, and Vickrey predicted that this total would increase as additional victims of persecution and war are applying for aid. The year's expenditures exceeded receipts by more than $1,500,000, but the balance carried over from the year before for which they appeared, served to provide the deficit and left a surplus of $228,000.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory power.

JOSEPH PULITZER.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The 13th and 14th Amendments.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A ^{of} American citizen having no interest for or against prohibition cannot fail, however, to be interested by the discrepancy between the eagerness displayed in the South for the enforcement of the Prohibition Amendment and the determined determination to nullify the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments in the self-same Constitution. As evidence on the latter point permit me to offer a brief quotation from editorial attributed by our press clipping agency to the Columbia (S. C.) State of Feb. 19:

"It is wonder that with the constant menace of negro violence under the so-called 'white suffrage' decreed for the South by the North that the representatives of civilization here took measures to restrict that suffrage and perpetuate civilization."

This paragraph constitutes one of innumerable public admissions by Southern citizens, newspaper editors and publishers, that the United States Constitution is to continue being made a scrap of paper when the white Southerner does not happen to like its provisions. It remains a question whether there is greater contempt for the negro inasmuch as he is denied the right to exercise his Constitutional prerogatives or in nullifying the document of that civilization at the will of dominant majorities.

JAMES WELDON JOHNSON, Secy., National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Soot.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It was without surprise I read the statement last night in your paper about the 2640 tons of soot which is precipitated on our city in one year. But now, what is the reason of all that black smoke? If I am right, a chimney sweep would not earn a simple dinner if he comes to town. Suppose even apartment house would clean its smokestacks, I suppose they would easily collect about 2000 tons, and after that keep it up every spring.

L. NESEIR.

The City's Spring Clothes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
There are several thousand houses and stores in St. Louis between Broadway and Grand Avenue, and even beyond, that badly need a cleaning up of a coat of paint or both. What a miraculous transformation it would be if all these could be cleaned and newly painted this spring.

All the shrubs, trees and grass will put on a new garment of green and color. Old Nature will spruce up and don new bright clothing after the bare and winds of winter. If we follow but emulate Nature by freshening up the environment for which they are responsible, it might react upon themselves almost as wholesomely as does the birth of spring itself. Our so-called blighted districts would not appear so blighted. Indeed, they might readily throw off the blight, if all the owners and agents and renters cleaned up and painted all the buildings. It would be a sign of renewed hope, ambition, and determination to do the best for themselves and for the city. Who will begin?

CITIZEN.

Justice All Around.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
TODAY you are properly commended by Mr. Rothenberg for generous publication of Mr. Gerhardt's free bridge speech. Mr. Thomas has instigated our city officials may get away with the $1,500,000 and Mr. Democrat nominates Mr. Carter for Mayor.

Let us be fair to our city officials. Mr. Nolte and Aloe, who put this item in the bond issue, and the Board of Aldermen who made appropriation for survey and condemnation of right-of-way for East Side approach, and doubtless will push this work, knowing that delay will cost us ten times the $1,500,000 each year in toll charges, and let us hope in justice to them you will publish this.

J. P. O'GORMAN.

"Fool Bills."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I HAVE often wondered how it was that Missouri had such men among her legislators as some of them (not all, thank heaven) are, but never more so than when I read today of one man's attempt to prevent the university and other schools from receiving the money that should have, and trying to prevent students from attending, by passing a law barring them to make up any possible deficiency.

The man says anything more than the eighth grade education ("") puts foolish notions in their minds and that the first day his daughter went to high school she wanted her skirts shortened. The day may come when that man will be glad to have some of the money earned by that little girl in teaching or some other occupation which takes education. Don't condemn the girls to a life in someone's kitchen, because they have not education enough to do anything else. Even if a child never has to earn their living by their brains, think of the value of a life out of life by reading and knowing of the other things they are worth while, things to be learned, travel, etc. I have earned my living for many years, and thank heaven still that I had parents who believed in education. Most of those fool bills have been defeated, and I hope they all will.

OLD WOMAN.

CANCEL THE GOLTRA LEASE.

Secretary of War Weeks, on advice of the Department of Justice, has decided to cancel the lease which the Government granted to Edward F. Goltra of this city on the 19 barges and four towboats generally known as the Goltra fleet. The decision will be widely approved by the business interests of St. Louis and the entire Mississippi Valley.

PASS THE BAR ASSOCIATION BILLS.

The Bar Association of St. Louis has before the Legislature four bills aimed at correcting unethical and charlatan practices which tend to promote delays and miscarriages in the administration of justice.

One measure, which has been already discussed and advocated in these columns, seeks to eliminate trial errors, which are the cause of so much delay and congestion of the courts, by raising the educational requirement for admission to the bar. It would require candidates for the bar in Missouri to be graduates of law schools demanding two years of collegiate work as an entrance condition.

As is well known, the Government barge line operating on the lower river has at times been unable to meet the demands of shippers, and could have used the Goltra fleet, or a part of it, to great advantage.

That incident cannot be dismissed as a mere irritant. It hurt the barge line seriously in prestige. It impaired the confidence of shippers in the line's capacity for continuous service. But the entire Goltra adventure has been bitterly disappointing and costly. It should end. The decision to abrogate this contract and put into use valuable property which has been idle should be carried out.

KLAN MEDICINE FOR KLANSMEN.

Edward Young Clarke of Atlanta, former acting imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, has been indicted by a grand jury of Houston, Tex., for alleged violation of the Mann white slave act. It is charged that he transported a woman from Houston to New Orleans for immoral purposes.

Clarke's guilt or innocence is not yet officially known. He is entitled to a fair trial. But if he were subjected to methods employed by the order of which he has been a national leader he would not get a fair trial. Merely on suspicion or in accordance with the Klan's standards of private justice he would be seized, carried to a remote point, flogged, tarred and feathered and perhaps mutilated by masked moralists who regard themselves as qualified to cast the first stone.

Why should a klanman escape his own medicine?

AN EFFECTIVE REVOLVER LAW.

The existing law to regulate the sale and carrying of pistols has had a 13-year test and been proved utterly ineffective. Sale of such weapons by stores in the city must, under this law, be registered. But anyone can buy a pistol elsewhere and bring it in, or purchase it through a mail order house, without registration, the only effect of this provision being to take trade away from local merchants.

The clause of the law aimed at concealment of weapons has been found to defeat its own object. The gunmen, having had no difficulty in obtaining weapons, go about openly armed and put up the defense that their weapons were not "concealed." But the peaceable citizen is at a disadvantage. Although the constitution gives him the right to bear arms, the concealment clause puts him in the felon class if he carries a pistol for self-defense. It is this fact which influences juries to acquit in pistol-carrying cases, so that no conviction has been had in the 13 years since the law was passed.

The Democratic party regained control of the Missouri Legislature by riding on the wave of protest that swept the country against Republican national misrule. It profited from the tactics of Hyde in the governorship and the steam-roller methods of the Republicans, particularly under Hiram Lloyd in the Senate. It profited also by resentment against the increase of local taxation.

It was not until after the present Legislature was safely elected that the people began to realize that the Democratic organization was responsible for obstructing and finally killing some excellent legislation—the foremost of which was the county unit school bill—initiated and passed by the Republicans at the 1921 regular session. The Democratic machine is now adding to its liabilities by undertaking such demagogic legislation as the tax bill above referred to. It is too late for the Democrats to correct and severe for the law breaker that it will deter him.

MR. ANTWHITE'S OPINION.

"Doubtless we have all wondered at times about the ruins in Yucatan and how cities could have sprung up there amid the discomforts of a low tropical country, infested by mosquitoes and all the plagues characterizing a region where Nature is less kind than luxuriant. There is an archeological expedition from the United States in Yucatan now. It left with an equipment from which one might have guessed that it was going to explore the lower regions. It took even gas tanks and quinine probably made up the most valuable items of its impedimenta. It is to work at Mitla, I think. The workmen is And thereby hangs the skirt a little shorter sleeves that are suggestions, and perhaps revelations of pretty arms. Whistling a wavy bit longer lines as flowing as those worn by Juliet and prices as tempered as Portia's kindness and justice.

The fellow who wrote that is no mute, inglorious Milton.

Under the heading "Books for Agnostics" advertised in the want ads on yesterday our amused eye encountered this: "Why don't God kill the Devil?" When we join with the erudition implied by the "don't" the profound speculation indicated by the inquiry itself, we ought to have something of a literary knockout.

The filibuster is as old as the Roman Senate. Cato filibustered against one of the pet measures of Caesar. It is rather laughable to recall what has been done about it between that time and this.

POSITIVELY: AB-SO-LOOT-LY!

Meers Gallagher and Mr. Shean have been in court trying to convince Mr. Lee Shubert that they are no good so they can continue working on the contract with Mr. Ziegfeld. Mr. Shubert was convinced.

Oh, Mr. Gallagher, oh, Mr. Gallagher. You're as rotten, just at rotten as can be. They ought to make you hit the breeze. And why they don't is more than I can see.

Oh, Mr. Shean, oh, Mr. Shean. You're the punkiest actor that I've ever seen. They ought to know you for your goal. You ought to be a sheepling coal.

You are ROTTEN, Mr. Gallagher.

You are TERRIBLE, Mr. Shean.

Oh, Mr. Shean, oh, Mr. Shean. They ought to sling the hook around your bean. As an actor you're the bunk.

You are awful, you are punk.

You're like a junk, second-hand machine;

Oh, Mr. Gallagher, oh, Mr. Gallagher.

I believe in every word that you do say.

But still it's plain to see.

That you're more punk than me.

WE ARE FRIGHTFUL, Mr. Gallagher.

We are HORRIBLE, Mr. Shean.

Oh, Mr. Shean, oh, Mr. Shean.

They ought to kick you right out of the scene.

To have us week by week.

Surely takes a lot of cheek.

How come we're here as long as we have been?

Oh, Mr. Gallagher, oh, Mr. Gallagher.

The salaries that we get here are not big.

The King of England, didn't you hear.

No, we're SUPERFLUOUS, Mr. Shean.

POLISH-LITHUANIAN TROUBLE.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.
FOR four years the League of Nations has struggled with the Polish-Lithuanian problem and half a dozen times its authority has been denied. The announcement that the French Parliament has voted a loan of $400,000,000 francs to Poland for the purchase of munitions is followed immediately by the news that Polish troops have clashed with Lithuania on the border. Poland cannot escape responsibility for Zeleginski's freebooting excursion which is at the root of the present difficulty. Her Government first condemned, then openly defended the seizure of Vilna. She defied the League of Nations to take it away from her and with French backing successfully resisted various settlements which were proposed. Bankrupted beyond hope of financial reconstruction, burdened with an army of hooligans in French pay and subject to French orders, disturbed by every one of her neighbors, Poland is playing almost as unhappy a part in post-war history as in the years before and during the war. She is still a pawn in the political game and will remain so until she develops a government strong enough to stand alone on a constructive policy of peace.

CHANGING DAY FOR INAUGURATION.

From the Detroit News.
T HE proposal for the abolition of lame duck congresses and the insulation of both executive and legislative branches of the Government in January following the November election developed surprising strength when it was introduced by Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska. The proposal has 43 to 8 in favor of submitting a constitutional amendment changing the inauguration. None of the leaders of either party opposed the resolution. It seems reasonable to suppose that similar support will be given the measure in the House of Representatives if the organization machinery will bring it to a vote. The action of the Senate is a reflection of the country's opinion. No strong argument has been adduced in support of the retention of the custom of assembling Congress long after its election and long after the election which determined that election may have been forgotten. The delay is a relic of stagecoach days. With most of its important legislation disposed of, the House of Representatives could with energy join in the submission of the proposed amendment before adjournment.

RADIO AS A LIFE SAVER.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.
I N radio, sea storms, in so far, at least, as their destruction of human life is concerned, apparently have met their master. Within 48 hours of the sinking of the "Titanic" in the Atlantic, radio messages of distress broadcast by radio served in each case to bring assistance sufficiently timely to avert utter disaster. Losses like that of the "Arctic" of 50 years ago or the "Titanic" in more recent years may yet become reduced to a minimum. Man's ravages at sea may be exterminated by radio over the Seven Seas. Travellers and traders who fare forth from port may yet do as little apprehension as that they live till they die.

If this victory of science and of radio is to be won, the triumph undeniably may be ascribed to radio. He was no chimical critic who said but yesterday that "the possibilities of radio's usefulness had not yet been scratched." Nowadays when scientific achievements are being more and more asperged by yearnings for a revival of the spirit of the middle ages, with its gloomy mysticism, they may wisely reflect upon what has been done and won on the high seas by the wonderful of human inventions.

SCANDALS OF 1922 HAS EXPERT DANCERS

When Revue Flags, George White, Pearl Regay and Tango Steppers Come to Rescue.

By RICHARD L. STOKES. MISCELLANIES such as George White's "Scandals of 1922," welcomed by a crowded house last night at the American, have nothing to do with the theater except that they happen to be shown in one. Neither do they require reviews, but merely reports.

The single expert trait of this typical example of mob-art—if the terms are not mutually destructive—is dancing. White himself, for the first time in his series of four productions, occasionally leaves the cash drawer in the box office to shift for itself and does some work on the stage, flinging one of the nimblest pairs of heels extant and clogging it quickly upon skin. He has three appearances and clatters out a ditty or so.

Supple Pearl Regay performs prodigies of muscular contortion: the shuffling steps of Charlie Chaplin are welcomed by a crowded house last night at the American, have nothing to do with the theater except that they happen to be shown in one. Neither do they require reviews, but merely reports.

TESTIMONY BEGINS AT SECOND HERRIN TRIAL

Undertaker, Coroner and Survivor of Massacre Called to Stand by State.

By the Associated Press.
MARION, Ill., March 5.—The State began the introduction of evidence today at the trial of six men charged with the murder of Antonio Mulkovich, one of the victims of the Herrin massacre last June.

Mulkovich, one of the armed guards at the mine where the trouble started, was a veteran of the World War, member of the 305th Signal Corps, 30th Division. He served at the Somme, St. Mihiel, Meuse and Argonne, according to honorable discharge papers found on his body. His home was in Erie, Pa.

Albert Stormer, a Herrin undertaker, the first witness, testified that he found the body identified as that of Mulkovich outside of Herrin at a spot known as the "Power House Woods" after the riots and took it to Herrin where he prepared it for burial.

Coroner Testifies.
William McCowan, Coroner of Williamson County, testified that he had held an inquest over the bodies of several victims of the riots. He said he was unable positively to identify the body of Mulkovich and was not sure which body the army surgeon's papers came from. Court was adjourned while he went to his office to consult his records. When he returned he testified that the body identified as that of the dead soldier appeared in his records as number 14.

William Cairns, a survivor of the riots, testified that he was an armed guard at the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Co. and was acquainted with Mulkovich.

The witness said he was shot down by a mob after his company had been told to "Beat it over a barbed wire fence." He testified that he lay wounded in the open field for about three hours and saw nearby the body of Mulkovich and that he believed the latter was dead.

The defendants in the present case are Hugh Willis, Otis Clark, Oscar Howard, James Brown, Bert Grace and Philip Fonnana.

Even Though He May Not Know Ritola's a Finn, Joie Ray Says He Can See Willie's FinnishBen Miller Star
Injures Leg in Game With Henses*Ray Declares He Will Beat Ritola in 5000
Metre Return Contest

(Copyright, 1923.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—Track follows throughout the country will have their eyes on the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, on Wednesday night, when John Ray the Finn, Willie Ritola, in the 5000-meter feature of the Western Union games.

Joe has gone on record as to this event. He says he will give Ritola the beating of his life in payment for Ritola's victory over Ray at the Knights of Columbus games last week, when the Finnish-American representative stepped the three-mile distance in record time, beating the Chicago taxi driver by less than a yard.
Opinion among track experts is divided as to whether he will be able to make good his promise or not.

The Ben Millers, inside left of the Henses, who yesterday won their way to the final round in the Municipal soccer elimination series, suffered a severe injury to the right leg in the second half of the game between the Millers and Henses and is lost to his team for the championship series with the St. Matthews eleven, which opens next Sunday.

O'Toole was injured in the second half of the Miller-Hense game, shortly after the Millers had scored the goal of the game. He was carrying the ball down the field when he collided with an opposing player and was thrown to the ground. He was taken to the Mullany Hospital, where it was thought that he had suffered a fracture of the right leg and would not be able to play again this season. An X-ray examination will be made today.

Harry Gantz, Ben Miller back, suffered a slight ankle injury, but it is not serious.

The Ben Millers entered the final round by winning their semifinal entrance yesterday with the Henses by a score of 1 to 0. The St. Matthews became finalists in the other bracket when they defeated the Badley Councils, 2 to 1, in two extra 15-minute periods.

The winners will then meet the Chicago amateur soccer champions in two games.

Tate Scores Twice.

Tate's brilliant play won for the St. Matthews. He tied the score twice in the first period before the end of the game by carrying the ball half the distance of the field and then gave the decision to his team in the first half of the second extra period by crashing the ball past Cahill for the decisive score.

The St. Matthews have won their division championship eight times in nine years, but have failed thus far to win a municipal championship.

The Ben Millers and Henses entered the second half of their game with neither team having scored. A short time later, Philbin lifted the ball to the mouth of the Hense goal on a corner kick and Goodwin shot it past Delaney for the goal that put the Millers in the final round.

Crippled Scullins Beat Vespers
And Tie for Soccer League Lead

Burke, Municipal Graduate, and Brannigan, Put a Lot of Punch in the Champions' Forward Line — Only Score Is Registered Early in Second Half.

By Dent McSkimming.

The suppression of the ambitious young Vesper team by the Scullins, 1 to 0 featured yesterday's professional soccer league double-header at High School Field. The Scullins, with a crippled lineup, were actually in grave danger of defeat, but a methodical defense stepped the three-mile distance in record time, beating the Chicago taxi driver by less than a yard. Opinion among track experts is divided as to whether he will be able to make good his promise or not.

The Ben Millers attained an early lead of two goals over the Hoovers in the other half of the double bill, but later lost it and were forced to concede to a tie, 2 to 2, in the second game of the day.

Ratican Out of Lineup.

Harry Ratican was absent from center forward for the Ben Millers, when they lined up against the Hoovers.

"Buddy" Brengle, formerly of the Prendergasts was at center and Poete returned to outside left. In the first ten minutes of play the Millers counted twice on spectacular plays.

Bischoff's long kick from throw-in went over Fullback Pepper's head and McHenry made a fine run and caught the ball at the goal line. He was in position to shoot from a low angle, but he elected to pass to Potts, who drove to the corner of the goal.

The Scullins forced the fighting.

Although the wind was against them, the Scullins forced the battle in the first half. The Vespers attacked on the other hand were full of danger although not numerous. Jimmy Burke, a graduate from the St. Leos of the Municipal League, and Brannigan put a lot of punch in the Scullin forward line. However, the half ended without a score.

The second period was 12 minutes old when Schwarz went through the center of the field and Hack.

Both teams attacked and Schwarz agreed to pass to Murphy, at the mouth of the Hense goal on a corner kick and Goodwin shot it past Delaney for the goal that put the Millers in the final round.

INDUSTRIALS ARE FEATURE OF DAY ON STOCK MARKET

Railroad Issues Irregular at Close — Bond Prices Are Firm — Exchange Market Quiet.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"While stock prices were well maintained today and total sales ran up to about 1,250,000 shares, it was said that could not be taken relief over the close Congress had expressed in a general buying movement. Activity centered in certain industrial specialties, which finished with substantial gains, but the movement of values in different departments lacked uniformity. Railroads were well taken during the first hour, but demand for them in the afternoon was irregular. Industrials showed a predominant air of gains, but recent speculative leaders were comparatively quiet. Little attention was paid to the railroads of the midwest by the Francisco Federal Reserve Bank, the change being regarded as merely the last step in bringing rates into line. The market was firm and call money held at 5 per cent throughout."

Foreign Exchange Quiet.

"Quietness continued in the foreign exchange markets of both London and New York traders still awaiting fresh light on the French and Turkish situations. Sterling came off a record of $4.704, while French francs were up 1/4 of a point higher at 6.114 cents. Similar small changes ruled in the other leading currencies, but the Scandinavian ones were somewhat unsettled by weakness in Norwegian kroner. The latter rose 16 points at 85 cents. They have displayed considerable uncertainty of movement ever since the recent announcement of American entry into Norway's shipping claims. Far Eastern silver exchanges made a firm way, and the Canadian dollar was unchanged at 85.37 cents.

Cotton Is Strong.

"Active speculation for the rise in cotton showed no diminution and the market set new high records. Thus May reached 26.97 cents and after recording 26.85 was still up 8 points on the day, as on Saturday, a feature October crossing 27 cents. General prevalence of a bullish sentiment, rather than any particular fresh news, appeared to be responsible for the advances. Cotton also showed a better tone, particularly from supplies by a well-considered influence on the course of prices. This agency placed the stocks on record on March 1 at 150,000,000, which compares with last year's Government figure of 131,000,000 bushels. However, since bearing interests recently have been talking of 16,000,000 bushels, today's rise in value must be understood. The wheat market gained 1/2 cent at $1.15. With regard to corn, today's private estimate is 160,000,000 bushels or 212,000,000 bushels less than the Government's figure of a year ago. The smaller supplies of this commodity are explained by the large amounts fed to hog during the past year. The official figures on farm stocks of grain will be issued on Thursday."

Bride Who Goes Back to Job And a Pay Envelope After Her Honeymoon, Upheld by Expert

Marriage a 50-50 Game, Says Mrs. Spencer—Each Wife Must Decide How Best to Do Her Share in Partnership.

By FAY STEVENSON.
S is the typical modern bride making a mistake in going back to her desk after her honeymoon? "Is she feathering her love nest for the future, or is she paving the way for a restless, discontented married existence?" These are the two questions I asked Anna Garlin Spencer, lecturer in Social Science and author of "Woman's Share in Social Culture." Mrs. Spencer has just completed a book called "The Family and Its Members," which is to be published by Lippincott's this spring and in this she freely discusses the problems of family adjustment which inhere in the new freedom and opportunity of women.

I turned to her to foretell the future of our bride of today who nearly always exclaims, "Yes, I'm going back to my desk, my telephone switchboard or my counter the moment I return from my wedding trip."

"And in many cases I think the modern bride is taking the right step," said Mrs. Spencer. "She is taking the right step provided her husband is willing to have her continue her work. The American man is, as a rule, quite proud of his wife and her achievements and at the same time he is the last man to want to become dependent or try to share his responsibilities for the unknown of the home."

"Then you advise a young couple to talk over their future before they plunge into matrimony and then argue about positions on the way home from their honeymoon?"

"I advise them to see things—the way they are," replied Mrs. Spencer, "to consider whether they can afford a maid to take the place of the housewife, to consider whether they wish children and how soon, to plan about the joint income, and how to be spent."

"If the bride and bridegroom can agree on these subjects I certainly think it is better for the bride to continue her work," continued Mrs. Spencer. "Few men will give a wife the allowance she has been finding in her pay envelope every week and very few women are going to be happy if they cannot have this same amount. Many of our leading sociologists contend that if the bride does not continue her work she lowers the standards of living and in many cases this is true. The joint income of the average modern couple enables them to have many creature comforts and luxuries which would never be theirs if only the husband remained at his post."

"On the other hand," pointed out Mrs. Spencer, "there is a certain

WHY NOT HAVE A TROUBLE CLINIC?

By Wm. A. McKeever

H AVE a municipal clinic, a place where parents may come with their difficult problems of child training and receive definite help.

Have the case of an unmanageable boy or girl reported to this clinic before serious damage to character has occurred, and thus prevent crime and evil.

Have the clinic function not only as a place of definite correction of juvenile error in its beginning, but a school of elementary instruction as to how to do right and go right for the future.

The foregoing is not my own idea, but the dream and partly the practice of a police Sergeant. What he has learned to do as an individual he would have his city do on a large scale.

"Eighty-five per cent of the criminals whom we handle are young men and boys under 21," said he, "and three-fourths of these could be saved from their wrongs before they begin if one only had the organization to meet their need for relief."

This man has dealt directly with thousands of parents who have come to the police station as a sort of lost-and-found department. "Do not blame parents, help them," he contends. "Speakers and writers everywhere are constantly finding fault with parents, but seldom offer them any real assistance."

As one who has long watched the situation of the wayward child, I am positive that if the right idea of a center has the right idea, and I get him better. Nearly all common parents earnestly desire the success of their children and they usually show their concern, but they do not know the sound rules of training.

Take the matter of spending money alone. The father who is wise enough to train his child from the beginning to do something to earn every penny which comes into the child's possession—that parent is laying a foundation for success with practically all the training problems.

But the father who carelessly tosses out the unearned coin to satisfy the whim of his teasing child is in for grief. It seems so easy at first to flip a penny on a nickel into the baby hands, but the craving for more grows slowly into a monster of selfishness and unreasonableness.

Nearly every one of the long line of parents coming to the police with their training troubles have simply acted too late. They should have some place to go for confidential advice before the matter becomes serious.

So, the task of helping a parent becomes a matter of adjusting a twisted young individual as nearly as possible to the standards of a perfect human nature.

WORDS of WISE MEN

A single fact is worth a shipload of argument.

Terror is more exhausting than any combat.

The most fortunate man is he who thinks himself so.

He is the best dressed whose dress no one observes.

Luck is always against the man who depends upon it.

One moment may throw down the credit years have built.

Steep regions cannot be surmounted except with winding paths.

A lie is like a snowball—the farther you roll it, the bigger it becomes.

Discipline is a medicine to be used sparingly lest its virtue be lost.

He who has never known adversity is but half acquainted with himself.

Enthusiasm breeds revolution, but revolution is apt to kill enthusiasm.

Parents should not have one law for themselves and another for their children.

Where had she got the money for that frock?

CHIPPED PEARS

THREE pounds of sugar, part white and part brown, three pounds of pears peeled and chipped in small pieces, two lemons cut in very small pieces or put through chopper. One-half ounce of green ginger root. Mix together and boil slowly until thick.

Mrs. L. J. P. says that she could not get the green ginger root as called for in the recipe, but used dry ginger root instead and it answered all purposes. Thanks for your appreciation of the column and for the recipe.

CHICKEN POT PIE

DISJOINT two chickens and cook in two quarts of water until very tender. Slip out bones and season. Line sides of deep kettle with rich biscuit crust. Add chicken and thicken layer. Stand in moderately hot fire until crust is well browned. Put chicken on plate and lay crust on it. This is an old-fashioned recipe.

TONIGHT'S INSTALLMENT.
I AM surprised to see you here tonight!

Cynthia was sitting in a corner of Mrs. Wakeland's pretty drawing room, and she started at the sound of Murray Stewart's voice.

It was a peculiarly attractive voice, well modulated and with the cultured timbre one often finds in actors and people of the stage, whose speaking tones are one of the essential assets of their business.

But Cynthia, with a determined effort of the will, hardened her heart against his charms. She was a naturally clever girl, and in her short stay in New York had already picked up what is known as "poise," which, combined with her little air of dignity, put this young man definitely at a distance.

"I—I'm glad to see you look so well," he began, a trifle awkwardly.

"Thanks. I do feel very well."

This wasn't very encouraging, and most extraordinary in view of the fact of her absence from the office.

What could it mean?

Had she been dissatisfied with Blacky? Had he offended her in any way?

"He sang in grand opera some years ago," a woman who was sitting near her said; "I always think of angel choirs when Count Veronc sings. He's a flippan little fellow, but he has a soul for music and for beauty, hasn't he?"

Cynthia nodded and just then the Russian baroness moved over to her. She was a pretty, fair woman in a gown of glittering rose-red sequins, with a small, dainty figure and great personal charm.

count's liquid tenor filled the room with a heavenly melody.

Those melting Italian tones were so unusually exquisite that quick tears sprang to Cynthia's dark eyes. She was a sensitive young girl, and never in her life had she heard such a flood of glorious song before.

"Is—is that a love-song? I don't understand Italian," Cynthia stammered.

But there was a sort of tenderness about this girl which looked as dewy and as fresh as springtime.

"She'll lose that blood quickly when the season swing," thought the sympathetic Russian, never dreaming of love—you may be sure of that!"

She looked with interest at the eager, half-shy, wholly pretty girl. Who was she? Margaret Wakeland was Bohemian in her tastes and friends and fancies, and this fair-haired, graceful young woman might be some semi-starving artist from Greenwich Village, or a budding poetess, or a stage girl out of a job, or a rich young girl just starting.

Blacky the Is Upset

Blacky the Crow.

BLACKY the Crow prides himself on knowing pretty much all there is just as well. So he is going on in the Green Forest that once in a while Blacky is on the Green Meadows. There's something almost under his sharp eyes of his miss very little hill. When he finally discovered because he travels back and he is always quite upset. You over a considerable distance pride is always hurt. Every day he sees more of what Blacky had spent the winter on than even his inquisitive in a certain clump of hemlock, Sammy Jay. But even such sharp eyes as those can't even during the worst storms. Blacky sometimes misses things every afternoon, just before the shadows came creeping through the Green Forest. Blacky hide away among the trees of one of these trees. Early morning he would start out for food. Every day he the Big River, for he often hangs to eat along the edge of the River where it was not. But now the winter would soon be over. Blacky found his thoughts turning to the coming of spring and nesting. He and Mrs. Blacky were already making plans. They had decided that they would get an early start this year. They talked about it a great deal. They argued about

He and Mrs. Blacky were already making plans.

They had no use for that nest now, but still he regarded it as their property. He and Mrs. Blacky built it, and it was very fine nest that had been. It was some distance from the place where Blacky roosted nights, and so to go over there was considerably out of his way.

But now the winter would soon be over. Blacky found his thoughts turning to the coming of spring and nesting. He and Mrs. Blacky were already making plans. They had decided that they would get an early start this year. They talked about it a great deal. They argued about it happened that one day they were unusually fortunate in finding plenty of food and so returned to the Green Forest early in the afternoon. Having nothing in particular to do, Blacky suggested that they go over to their old nest and see how it looked after all the winter storms. Mrs. Blacky was quite willing, and so with Blacky in the lead they started.

They kept their tongues still as they flew. Blacky and his relatives are naturally noisy, but when they are near their nesting place they are always silent. So Blacky and Mrs. Blacky kept their tongues still as they winged their way above the trees straight toward their old nest.

Mrs. Blacky stopped to investigate something which interested her.

It happened that Blacky arrived at the place where their nest was just a little ahead of her. He flew straight to the tree in which it was and alighted. He leaned forward to look into the old nest and right then and there he received a shock that upset him completely. Yes, sir, Blacky was more upset than he ever had been in his life before.

HOPE and LOVE

By Winifred Black

DEAR me, how important he is—the boy in the outer office.

The red-headed one, I mean—yes, the one with the gay moods—he thinks he runs the whole office.

I shouldn't be surprised if that paper wouldn't come out at all—if he resigned.

I wonder if he's as important as that to his mother at home.

Does she pretend to be awe-struck and impressed when he tells her about the great bank presidents he knows, and the big lawyers, and the distinguished doctors?

Knows them? To be sure he does.

They might as well try to climb over the wall to paradise as to attempt to get in to see his boss without his permission.

I tell you they all have to be nice to him.

Sometimes he wonders whether his boss really appreciates him. There was that time when he thought he was an important manager—well, anyhow, the boss seemed to think it was important—and it was left by the strongest kind of a little old gentleman with a necktie that the office boy wouldn't be hired to wear.

How could he guess that the little old gentleman was the boss' father come to town on business?

It wasn't the office boy's fault that the boss' father wasn't more "classy," was it?

Everyone Has a Story.

Well, he is important, after all, the boy in the outside office.

And how do you know how much they think of him at home, and how proud they are of him, and how many boyish ambitions he cherishes in his boyish heart—behind all his airs and dignities?

For one thing, he wants to look like the boss—you can tell that by the way he walks—tries to talk like him, too. Why, there's a story in the office boy, in his home and his mother and his little sister he is trying to help through school and the rich uncle, who simply will not see what a remarkable boy he is.

You can talk about a quarter in an old discarded vest. Or the ten spot on the sidewalk and your gold bricks and the rest. But they're really not a marker to the thing that makes me glad. For I found a quart of likker that I didn't know I had.

Well, you may think, my son, that you've knocked Good Luck for a goal. But I have it all over you. I have upon my soul:

For only yesterday I found beneath my cellar stair A precious little lump of coal I didn't know was there.

You can talk about your quarters and your precious lumps of coal. And other forms of manna that bring unction to the soul. But while looking for a golf ball on the lawn on which I played I chanced to run across an egg that must have been mislaid.

See where there is a big increase in drunkenness in New York. However, this will all be corrected when prohibition goes into effect.

Since the bootleggers started selling wood alcohol as a beverage the term "blind drunk" is fraught with more meaning than formerly. Maybe that's the reason they call their groggeries blind pigs.

SURE DAMNATION FOR SOMEBODY

A boy I had this one from my father. I seem to recall that he said it actually had happened before the Civil War in the remote Kentucky settlement where my forbears lived for upwards of a hundred years.

My father said that into the community there came a dashing stranger. He had no visible means of support, but such was his ingratiating personality and such was the dashing way he had about him, that speedily he became favorite among the simple pioneers. Shortly after his advent the local Methodist circuit rider organized a protracted meeting which was largely attended. In all respects a tremendous success. The entire congregation manifested deep interest in the revival. No layman in the congregation displayed quite so admirable a spirit in backing up the efforts of the officiating exhorter.

The last night of the meeting was devoted to foreign missions. The preacher rose to inspired heights of eloquence. In vivid colors he painted the forlorn and ignorant state of the heathen and the crying need of funds with which to spread the Christian doctrine in far-off pagan lands. At the proper psychological moment, when the assemblage had been worked up into a fit frame of mind for contributing heavily to the good cause, the preacher called upon the fascinating strangers to pass the hat. It developed later that upon that very day the latter had gone to the minister and volunteered for this service.

He passed the hat. He passed it until it was filled to the brim with the offerings of the multitude. When his round of the pews was completed, instead of marching up to the pulpit and depositing the funds there, the newcomer began to edge toward the door of the church, and, incidentally, toward where his horse was tethered outside. Observing this suspicious newcomer, the preacher was filled with a horrid dread.

"My brother," he called out, "if you go away from the house of God with that there money you will be damned."

On the words the stranger vanished out of the door. The voice of a person in a back pew broke the horrified hush which followed.

"Well, parson," he said, "if he ain't went, I'll be damned."
